Stuppy Greenhouse, Inc. Announces Addition of Tabb Buel as Vice President of Operations

Seasoned executive Tabb Buel joins as Vice President of Operations, bringing extensive experience to elevate Stuppy's standard of excellence.

North Kansas City, MO: (March 11, 2024) — Stuppy Greenhouse, Inc., a national greenhouse manufacturing company, has announced Tabb Buel as new Vice President of Operations. Passionate about building and leading cross-functional teams, Buel will focus on streamlining and creating new standards of excellence to improve efficiency and quality while fostering innovation and collaboration.

Buel is an accomplished leader with core competencies in the development and execution of business strategies. He has led numerous operations including product design and development, manufacturing, distribution and product line management. In addition to his business operations experience, Buel is a mechanical engineer, project manager and holds an Executive MBA from the Bloch School of Management at the University of Missouri – Kansas City.

Tabb shared his enthusiasm in joining Stuppy, saying, "I am very excited to join Stuppy, as it is a well-respected, established brand and family-owned business that will continue to grow and be successful. I am focused on providing Stuppy customers with the highest quality and best performing products in the industry."

Prior to joining Stuppy, Buel was the Vice President of Operations at Sysco, a wholesale restaurant food distributor. Buel has also led business operations for several well-established companies such as Vista Outdoor Inc., Garmin and Black & Veatch Corporation.

Outside of his work, Tabb enjoys traveling with his wife, Dianne, spending time with his family and staying active through running, biking, and playing pickleball. His go-getter attitude and perseverance when facing obstacles are valuable assets to the company.

Stuppy Greenhouse, Inc. is a commercial greenhouse manufacturer offering controlled-environment solutions including structures, equipment, hydronic heat, and hydroponic growing systems for commercial and institutional growing applications nationwide.
